WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission Tuesday approved an agreement settling the 13-year-old Comsat rate dispute and said the public should be the eventual beneficiary of lowered rates and refunds in the settlement.

to the public but serves carriers that do. Among its major customers are the television networks and the Department of Defense.

In general, the agreement modifies the base on which Comsat can calculate its rates.

The case began in 1965. David Irwin, an official of the FCC's Common Carrier Bureau, called it "one of the most tortured cases that has ever been before the commission." The record includes 20,000 pages of hearings.

Court orders Little to complete sentence

ALBANY N.Y. (AP) — The state's highest court Tuesday ordered fugitive Joan Little returned to North Carolina to complete her prison sentence for breaking and entering, but gave her lawyers 10 days to mount an appeal in her home state.

Little is black, her jailer was white, and the case became a cause celebre for both the women's and civil rights movements. She escaped from prison in Raleigh, N.C., last October while serving a 7-to-10 year sentence for breaking and entering, and was recaptured in New York City in December.

Little, 24, became nationally known in 1975 when she was acquitted on charges she killed a North Carolina jailer who she said had attacked her sexually.

She has said that she would "rather die" than return to North Carolina, where she claims her life would be in danger.

California gunman surrenders

TORRANCE Calif. (AP) — A gunman thwarted in a robbery attempt took seven women hostage in a jewelry store, then released them over a 12-hour period before surrendering Tuesday, authorities said.

pressed demands for safe transportation to an unspecified location.

Police said Dwyer's wife, Sharon, had been allowed to enter the store through the night to bring him medication, but she was no longer inside. The child was thought to have entered with her.

Police said William John Dwyer, 29, walked from the store with his hands up about 7:20 a.m. PDT. He left his 2-year-old daughter behind, and police brought her safely from the store.

Authorities would not say what kind of medication Dwyer was taking.

The next-to-last hostage to be freed, Mary Patton, 21, walked from the store about 5:30 a.m., and her sister, Joy, 19, left about 45 minutes later. Both worked at a dress shop in a shopping center where the jewelry store is located.

Torrance Police Department spokesperson Jim Papst said Dwyer had been holding the child hostage while he would be equal to about one-third the standard one-way economy fare.

The airlines requested the lower first-class fares, complaining that many entrepreneurs switched from first-class to discount fares.

The Civil Aeronautics Board on Monday approved reductions of 13 percent to 20 percent in domestic first-class fares, effective May 19.

The ruling sets first-class fares at 130 percent of normal coach fares, compared to the current range 150 percent to 163 percent, depending on distance traveled.

At the same time, the board received a request from Trans International Airlines, the world's largest charter carrier, for approval to offer a $79 scheduled air fare on 10 flights between New York and Los Angeles this summer. The price

A one-way New York-Boston ticket will decrease from $57 to $49 and the New York-Los Angeles price will drop from $359 to $286.

Panel to probe Nelson's loans

LANSING (UPI) — A panel of three state senators was named Tuesday to probe loans which Sen. Earl Nelson accepted from a lobbyist and a key dog racing advocate.

independent judgment and will bring legal and financial expertise to the committee's investigation.

"State Senator Earl Nelson has requested the Senate look into the loans he received from two lobbyists in an effort to clear up any alleged wrongdoing on his part," Faust said.

Named by Senate Majority Leader William Faust to sit on the committee were Democrats Jerome Hart of Saginaw and Basil Brown of Highland Park and Republican Harry DeMaso of Battle Creek.

"It is our feeling that Senators Hart, Brown and DeMaso will work together quickly and efficiently to investigate this matter and report back to the full Senate as soon as possible."

Faust said the three were chosen because they have a history of exercising

CETA receives funds for youth jobs

LANSING (UPI) — State Labor Director Patrick Babcock said Tuesday nearly 50,000 youths aged 14 through 21 will be hired under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act summer jobs program.

Nationwide, 1.6 million summer jobs for young adults are being funded by CETA.

"This program will again provide badly needed summer jobs for youth," Babcock said.

Babcock said more than $25.7 million was allocated to CETA agencies serving urban youth. An additional $5.6 million is available for youths residing in the state's 56 rural counties.

"Youth unemployment continues to be double that of the general population with minority youth unemployment hitting about 40 percent. Looking for a summer job is an awesome task, especially for disadvantaged youth."

Jet landing in bay kills three

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Three persons died Monday when a jetliner made a belly-flop landing in Escambia Bay, three miles short of the runway.

The landing had appeared normal when National Airlines Flight 193 nosed down gently toward Pensacola Airport. Even the jolt as the Boeing 727 smacked into the bay was not the best clue that something was wrong.

said passenger Tom Holmes. "It wasn't until the water poured in up to my knees that I realized we were in the bay."

Holmes, 37, of Pensacola, was among the 55 passengers and crew members who survived, most of them rescued by a cool headed tugboat pilot and mate who rushed their tug and barge to the plane.

Hospital officials identified the dead as Paul V. Wilkes of Virginia Beach, Va., and two Pensacola women. Frances Lane and S.J. Fantauzzi, 29.

The National Transportation Safety Board set up a base in this north Florida city, and said a preliminary report on a possible cause for the crash and the deaths might be ready in a few days.

In the bay on Tuesday, waves slapped the shiny tail and upper fuselage of the aircraft. It sat in the muddy floor and about 10 feet of water.

Several passengers said the plane's descent seemed normal.

John Snodgrass, a pharmaceutical representative from New Orleans, said the pilot announced after the plane left Mobile, Ala., that there was fog in Pensacola but said "there were 12 mile-per-hour winds and as long as the winds kept up there wouldn't be any trouble with the fog."

"It was not a bad flight," he said. "There was no announcement we were going to crash. Without any warning it went into the water. I thought it was a real bad landing until the started rushing by me. The realized we were in the water. Jet fuel covered the water. "It burned everyone's eyes," said Snodgrass from his Pensacola hotel room. "It horrendous."

He said he and some of passengers floated for several minutes before reaching a piece of the plane. Several people stood neck deep on the water but as the plane settled down into the water, they had to swim.

"The co-pilot was swimming around and he had some jackets," said Snodgrass. "Two or three people had gotten out of the plane by then and started helping others up."

A half an hour later, a tug showed up... if it hadn't for that barge, things would have been a lot worse."

Officials credited the tug captain, Glenn E. McDo, with rescuing dozens of passengers by plucking them from fuel covered waters and bringing them aboard a construction barge he hurriedly pushed against the plane.

Escambia County Civil Defense officials estimated 350 to 500 professional amateur rescuers showed up at the sparsely settled east side of the bay to help fuel-drenched victims.

Three persons were killed Monday night when a National Airlines Boeing 727 landed in Escambia Bay, three miles short of the runway at Pensacola Airport, Pensacola, Fla. The pilot and one crew member of a tugboat 300 feet from the site of the crash are credited with saving many of the passengers lives. The National Transportation Safety Board said that a report on the cause of the accident would not be available for several days.

No jet sale change, Carter insists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration insisted Tuesday the basic terms of its sale of jet fighters to Egypt, Israel and Saudi Arabia will not be changed, but there was growing talk of a compromise that would later send additional warplanes to Israel.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told the House International Relations Committee that private negotiations are continuing with House and Senate members and that "some members on both sides" have suggested such a compromise.

Vance had met earlier in the day with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., left the session saying, "I believe we're on a road which could lead to a settlement."

The senators said they had agreed not to discuss details of the talks but Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., when asked whether more fighters for Israel figured in the compromise talks, replied: "If that isn't one of the elements, I don't know what we're talking about."

President Carter wants to sell $4.8 billion worth of jet fighters. The deal calls for the sale of 15 F-15s and 75 F-16s to Israel, 60 F-15s to Saudi Arabia and 50 less sophisticated F-5Es to Egypt.

Vance told the House panel that negotiations are under way "to see if there is something that could be done that would be helpful" to provide assurances that aircraft sold to Arab states will not be used against Israel.

"We're having discussions with members on both sides of the hill and those discussions are continuing," Vance said. "That's the state of play."

When Vance was asked whether such assurance might include selling Israel 20 additional F-15 jet fighters at a later date, he replied, "some members on both sides have suggested that. That's all I can say."

No-fault auto insurance bill before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate panel Tuesday called for floor action a bill establishing a nationwide system of no-fault automobile insurance.

The Commerce Committee voted 9-7 to send the bill to the full Senate.

The crucial vote for the bill came from Sen. J. Danforth, D-N.H., who said he would vote against the bill if the floor it remains in present form.

A series of amendments by Durkin, R-N.H., were defeated by the committee and he promised to bring the bill back to the floor.

Bakke—an ominous trend or a glimmer of hope?

Allan Bakke. The name was plastered all over the front pages of newspapers and magazines last autumn, as the Supreme Court began deliberations on the case for which his name is well-known. Bakke, a 37-year-old white male denied entrance to the University of California Medical School at Davis, sued for admission on the grounds that he had been discriminated against in favor of less-qualified minorities. The California Supreme Court upheld his contention, prompting the medical school to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

We believe Bakke should lose his case, because what he labels unconstitutional "reverse discrimination" is, in our judgment — as well as the judgment of many others more familiar with constitutional law — nothing more or less than a fully-constitutional and morally-defensible drive to give minorities the same access to the bounties of society that the white majority has reaped in for so long.

Any day now the Court is expected to hand down its opinion on the Bakke case. Those with a stake in the matter — even many disinterested parties, if such groups do in fact exist — are understandably nervous about the outcome. But those who believe in the protection and furtherance of minority rights should be equally distressed over a number of trends now gaining momentum.

In Birmingham, Mich., citizens recently voted down a proposal to establish low-income housing in that suburb, thus effectively maintaining a ban against the influx of minorities. A recall drive is now underway against the officials who conceived the proposal. Speakers at a recent NAACP convention in Detroit warned that minorities were losing ground, and cited the failure of big city public schools to desegregate as one example of this.

Blacks, disappointed by the broken promises of the Carter administration, are talking with increasing and disturbing frequency about throwing support to Republicans, whose strong suit is still mollifying well-monied whites.

All these factors are disturbing, and tend to complicate any dialogue on what influence the Court's decision on Bakke will have. But for all too many, these other issues will be on the back burner until the Bakke ruling comes down.

Partisan politics reaches point of diminishing returns

A manifesto issued this week by all 38 Republican U.S. senators condemning the foreign policy of the Carter administration is an example of action for the sake of partisanship alone. The signed, published statement, which calls Carter's policy incoherent, inept and inconsistent, was meant solely to make foreign policy a party-line issue in this non-presidential election year.

While foreign policy will not likely be the only scapegoat of hungry politicians looking to augment party stands, it seems a particularly poor choice because it is traditionally an area reserved for presidential initiative. Because of this, foreign policy

"Some of the past policies of the cabinet are not in accordance with my philosophies and goals for the 14th ASMSU legislative session," said Dan Jones. Those past policies include maintaining relations primarily on a national rather than state or local level.

Jones' housecleaning OK, but therapy plan is poor

Although it has been only a few weeks since Dan Jones assumed the presidency of the ASMSU Student Board, it is not too early to evaluate some of his more public actions, particularly the firing of cabinet members with whom he was dissatisfied and the proposal to have the entire board undergo est-type therapy training.

Jones has come under fire for requesting resignations and dismissing members of the Legislative Cabinet because he did not appoint, and was not in agreement with, the ideologies and policies of these students. This criticism, we feel, is unwarranted. Not only is it within Jones' rights to terminate appointments made by former presidents, but it is advisable that, in attempting to provide maximum student benefits, the branches of ASMSU be able to work in harmony.

Charges that John Furtaw, one of those students dismissed, is more qualified than persons Jones will choose to handle the legislative lobbying position are irrelevant. Furtaw is indeed familiar with the legislative process, but that does not make him the best representative of the student body, particularly when he is ideologically attuned to the civic concerns that the ASMSU president plans to address. Bob Vatter, the other cabinet member released by Jones, has no special qualifications for the position and, like his associate Furtaw, does not share the goals of the administration. It is unreasonable to expect Jones to forego appointing individuals with whom he can work effectively.

But Jones does not wish to spend hundreds of student dollars on a therapy we aimed at getting board members to know each other better. The goal is commendable, but the method and cost are not. Student board members are elected to a position that requires working harmoniously and productively with several other people, hardly justifiable to expect them to undergo an expensive therapy session to work together. The cost to the student body is not at a cost to student

Sun Day

I have just one question. Why is Sun Day so important? The energy crisis simply is not as close as everyone thinks. The power corporations have kept us where we are, until now, and they will do anything to continue this. It is no reason to panic. A solar salesperson, at the capital on Sun Day, told me that Consumers Power refused to buy power generated by home windplants. Who are we to force CP to buy our power? It's a free country. Besides, they're working hard on their own wind plants that will dwarf any home plant. There is no reason for responsible MSU students to worry about the possibility that the roles they are training for will not exist soon. I, for one, am sure that those in charge will take care of everything, so why get involved in something like solar energy? Who started Sun Day, anyway?

'Informed?'

Since folks like Abortion Alternatives, Inc. seldom listen to all the facets of a complicated issue, I will take one easy shot: You give "accurate information of fetal development and the (physical and mental) dangers of abortion." Fine.

But if you "never refer for an abortion," if you don't give the woman accurate information on the physical and emotional dangers of pregnancy, childbearing and rearing, birth defects and overpopulation, how can you claim that "they can make an informed decision?"

Insurance plan not the same

Keith Groty is quoted in the State News of May 3 as stating that the faculty and staff life insurance program adopted July 1, 1976 "is the same program" that existed prior to that date. That statement is simply not true.

Prior to July 1, 1976 the maximum coverage available to faculty from ages 45 to 65 was $24,000 at a premium rate of $6.50 per month. The current plan provides for a maximum $24,000 coverage for males, only until age 55 and then decreases to $15,000 coverage until age 60 when it finally drops to $10,500 until age 65. At the same time the premium has been increased to $15.00 per month. This means that University employees at age 55 have lost $9,000 coverage while those at age 60 have lost $13,500 although their premiums have increased almost 2 and a half times.

Likewise, the paid up insurance policy at age 65 has decreased from $2,500 under the former plan to $2,000 under the current one. If this new program "is the same program," then words have lost their meaning.

Prove it, Lion

I defy Ed Lion to prove that the four girls held responsible for the "bottle-rape" of the nine-year-old "would probably have committed a vicious crime against someone sooner or later."

Why doesn't Lion loan his crystal ball to the various surrounding police agencies so they will be able to know who will probably commit a vicious crime against someone sooner or later?

Lion says . . .

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin came to the United States last week and called on American Jews to stand firmly behind the Israeli government. Only with unity, he said, between the Israeli government and American Jews could Israel's security be maintained and a Mideast peace be achieved.

But if American Jews really want peace the worst thing they could do is stand firmly behind Begin.

In Israel, a split is developing over Begin's hard line policy. He has refused to withdraw from lands occupied by Israel on the West Bank and is only willing to offer "self-rule" with an Israeli military presence to the Arabs living there.

This offer has been called unacceptable by the most moderate Arabs and has all but derailed the peace initiative started by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in November.

Recently a massive protest — by Israeli standards — of some 30,000 people was held in opposition to Begin's hard line policies. A group of Israeli religious leaders — traditionally hard liners — also called on Begin to relinquish the West Bank in the name of peace. They reportedly said their biblical attachment to West Bank lands is not as important as a lasting peace.

A few prominent American Jews, including Nobel prize-winning author Saul Bellow, have also publicly criticized Begin's policies. But the vast majority of American Jews have kept quiet even though there are indications that many don't wholeheartedly endorse Begin's stance. They are afraid to publicly criticize the Israeli government, presumably for fear that such criticism would be interpreted as weakness and disunity among Israeli and American Jews.

American Jews are very influential in Middle Eastern events, both because of their clout with the American government and their financial support of Israel. Silence or lack of criticism of Begin's policies by American Jews will lend Washington and Jerusalem to believe they totally support Begin's hard line stance.

It is fairly obvious that an Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank would not jeopardize Israel's security. The West Bank was in Arab hands from 1948 to 1967.

In fact, one of the most frequently discussed plans is to link the West Bank with Jordan. Certainly that would be any concerns.

American Jews should not be afraid to speak out if they are dissatisfied with Begin's policies. Without criticism,

It is fairly obvious that an Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank would not jeopardize Israel's security. The West Bank was in Arab hands from 1948 to 1967. Turning it over to the Arabs now would strengthen moderates—like Sadat—and help ensure that peace will come to the region.

Turning it over to the Arabs now would strengthen moderates — like Sadat — and help ensure that peace will come to the region.

revisions will not readily occur. On the 30th anniversary of the founding American Jews should recall in a way that could make Israel's 20 years filled with peace — not war — should speak their minds to Begin and him, just as Jews did in Israel, that don't support his policies. This dialogue can only be to Israel's benefit.

Williams 'Sweet Bird' revived

By DANIEL HILBERT
State News Staff Writer

"I don't ask for your pity, but just for your understanding — not even that — no. Just for your recognition of me in you, and the enemy, time, in us all."

Tennessee Williams' Sweet Bird of Youth

Williams wrote Sweet Bird of Youth in 1959, after his initial triumph with The Glass Menagerie and later A Streetcar Named Desire and Cat on a Hot Tin Roof. Success had found Williams, or vice versa, and according to his autobiography the world he explored in Sweet Bird of Youth was the sex, booze and drug existence he was trying to cope with at the time.

This play examines the destructive capacity for clinging to life that possesses two characters.

Chance Wayne is 29 years old, and has begun to notice his good looks fading and miss his innocence that faded long ago.

The Princess Kosmonopolis, his companion in the hotel room that is both their battlefield and cocoon, is something less than twice his age. Believing her acting abilities and looks have withered after a tailed come back, she is buoyed up with pills, sex and booze.

These two people have come together after a trip across the country that leaves them in the hotel room in Chance's hometown. It is here that Chance tries to regain his youth and innocence, along with the woman that signifies both of these.

"The greatest challenge is that the play must be mounted exactly as written," said Peter J. Vaccaro, director of the production.

The mounting of this production is unique because it combines the talents of members of the community. MSU students, faculty and staff. "Our alumni, students, faculty and staff are people who form the truest link between the University community and the Lansing community by their participation," explained Vaccaro.

Rehearsals for the play began in April after auditions which cast both novices and professionals in select roles.

The Princess is played by Marianne F. Lubkin, MSU alumna in theater who currently teaches English and theater at Okemos High School.

Her performance in the role of the Princess represents a return to the stage after many years of acting which has garnered her a Sparty Award for the Best Actress of the Year.

Chance Wayne, the stud who provokes the action of the play by returning to the hometown that has turned him out, is played by Rob Lewis.

Lewis is currently finishing his undergraduate degree in English at MSU and is an undergraduate assistant.

His previous acting experience includes roles at both The Borshead Theatre and the Okemos Barn Theatre.

Richard Mancino, a senior majoring in political science, portrays Tom Junior, the son of Boss Finley whose daughter is Chance's girlfriend.

Tom Junior confronts Chance in the second act when his feelings about Chance's relationship with his sister, Heavenly, surface.

Mancino also starred as Stanley Kowalski in the 1976 Arena Theatre presentation of Williams' A Streetcar Named Desire.

The youngest member of cast is Philip Moss, who plays the oldest character, Boss Finley, the father of Tom Junior and Heavenly.

Moss is a freshman majoring in theater who has had numerous experience with high school productions.

The play opens tonight at the auditorium in Kellogg Center and runs through May 14.

Curtain is at 8:15 p.m. and tickets are available only in advance at the Union Ticket Office.

The Princess (Marianne F. Lubkin) and Chance Wayne (Rob Lewis) recline on the bed in which most of Sweet Bird of Youth transpires.

Redgrave to appear in 'Twelfth Night'

Gerald Freedman, newly appointed Artistic Director of the American Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford, Connecticut, has announced that Lynn Redgrave will play Viola in the Theatre's production of Twelfth Night scheduled to run from July 5 through August 6.

Twelfth Night marks the return of the mainstage

Shakespeare productions in Stratford, where it was last presented in 1966.

Performances will be Thursday through Saturday evenings at 8 p.m.

THE BANDS 'LAST WALTZ'

Remembrance of times past

By BILL HOLDSHIP
State News Reviewer

THE LAST WALTZ: The Band (Warner Bros. 3WS 3146)

To look at Time, Newsweek, or New Times, it seems that it is currently in vogue to review Martin Scorsese's film documentary of The Last Waltz. But since the movie probably won't reach the Lansing area until sometime early this summer, let's take a look at the next best thing — or the best thing, depending on how one looks at it. After all, unlike the movie, one can play the record over and over again.

The Last Waltz is a dynamite three record set. Most critics have called the movie the greatest rock documentary ever made. In the same way, the record set is the greatest "coffee table" album to ever come our way. Besides that, The Last Waltz is considerably less expensive and less pretentious (meaning it delivers what it promises) than past "coffee table" LPs like Chicago's Carnegie Hall set or The Concert For Bangladesh.

The Last Waltz concert was probably the high society rock event of 1976. Supposedly The Band's final performance together, it took place as a Thanksgiving Day dinner for 5,000 at Bill Graham's Winterland auditorium in San Francisco — the hall where the band first performed as The Band. Several "friends" showed up for dinner, such as Bob Dylan, Eric Clapton, Van Morrison, Neil Young, and Joni Mitchell, among others, and the show became one that ranks with Woodstock as a genuine rock media event.

Five sides of this album capture the whole of that show. The sixth side is the studio-recorded "The Last Waltz Suite" (also part of the film) which features Emmylou Harris and The Staple Singers, and which will especially appeal to diehard Band fans. Fans will also be pleased to know that the live sides surpass both their own Rock Of Ages and Dylan's Before The Flood for renditions of Band classics like "Stagefright" and "Cripple Creek" which are scattered throughout the LP.

However, it is the special guest appearances that truly make this the classic that it is. Be it a powerful "Who Do You Love" with Ronnie Hawkins, who gave them their start as The Hawks in the early '60s, a folksy "Helpless" and "Coyote" with fellow Canadians Mitchell and Young, a driving "Mannish Boy" with granddaddy Muddy Waters, or some Orleans boogie woogie with Dr. John demonstrate that they can play any type of American music.

The real "Surprise" is Neil Diamond. Robertson produced his Beautiful Noise LP seems to be somewhat out of place with others, but who does a commendable job of "Your Eyes." The album is stolen, however, by three rock 'n' roll demigods. Following Waters' display of the roots, Eric Clapton performs a gut level blues rocker called "On Up The Road," and I swear he hasn't looked like this on record since the end of the decade when today's New Wave stars were carving "E.C. is God" on London ghetto walls. But even Clapton's thunder can't surprise concert's definite showstopper by Van Morrison. There is no white man on the face of this who sings R&B quite as well as Morrison of interesting paradox as he hails from Northern Ireland. Morrison makes a comment on this dichotomy with a bluesy version of "Tura Lura Lural (That's an Irish Lullaby)." Morrison finishes off with his classic "Casey Jones."

However, The Last Waltz's STAR is other than good old Renaldo Zimmerman (Bob Dylan), who demonstrates that he knows how to rock on a heavy metal like "Baby Let Me Follow You Down," hasn't jacked a strat or belted like this the '65 motorcycle accident, and it's a treat to hear. He follows with a top "Forever Young" — an interesting comment light of the concert performed by a greying rock 'n' rollers. (Ironically enough, Band and Paul Butterfield perform a rendition of Elvis Presley's "Mystery Train" earlier in the show). The grand finale entire cast and crew joining in on Dylan's "Be Released," with Ringo Starr and Bob added to the list. After all, you have to have token ex-Beatle and Rolling Stone at high society rock event!

The Last Waltz is recommended for rock and American music alike. It may not be for the love of rock 'n' roll (watch those come rolling in), but what the hell — there's no denying that it is a great record none!

Arts Workshop expanding

By JANET HALFMANN
State News Staff Writer

Whether it's disco dance, woodturning or painting that interests you, the East Lansing Arts Workshop has expanded its offerings. The workshop was started in 1972 by a handful of people who thought East Lansing was "deadly" and wanted to do something Workshop classes are small, include people of all ages and are non-competitive. Classes are available for the serious art student as well as the beginner, explained Charlotte Hastings, spokesperson for the East Lansing Arts Workshop.

creative and exciting, said Charlotte Hastings, spokesperson for the workshop. "They were concerned about the level of conscious art in terms of art," she said. The founders wanted an alternative educational facility to MSU and Lansing Community College, she said. Workshop classes are small, include people of all ages and are non-competi-

An initial enrollment of about 50 has increased to 500 adults enrolled this spring. In addition, many children are enrolled in classes at the workshop and in outreach classes held in area elementary schools.

"Tag-Along Art" at $1 per session offers art for pre-schoolers while their parents attend daytime classes at the workshop.

The workshop is expanding its summer fine arts camp in movement, art and music for children ages 4 to 16.

A recent grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts will be used to bring children's classes into Spartan Village and Red Cedar schools this summer.

A program for handicapped and senior citizens is also in the planning stages.

Other priorities include a photographic darkroom and a jewelry making department. The workshop recently acquired a third kiln which makes a large difference in the pottery program, Hastings said.

The non-profit workshop rents the former Marble School, located at the corner of Burcham and Hadgadorn, for $1 per year and receives $8,000 per year from the city of East Lansing for utilities and upkeep. Other funding comes from membership fees, a percentage of tuition and community support.

In June 1977, the East Lansing Fine Arts Commission, which serves as an umbrella agency for the workshop, was formed. It advises the city council on fine arts programs.

Theater faculty respond to cutbacks

By REGINALD THOMAS

"Disappointing." That was the remark made by members of the Theatre Department when they first learned of the University's plans to alter the Performing Arts Center.

The center was originally planned to include classroom space for the theater department. But after a switch in priorities the administration eliminated the classroom structure.

The department has been trying to obtain additional space for classes for many years. The department had thought their request for additional space had been answered when former president Clifton R. Wharton Jr. announced plans to build a new center that included classrooms.

The Theatre Department began to expand its program in preparation for its move to the new building, said department head Frank C. Rutledge.

Rutledge added that they are now exploring the effect the new alteration will have on the department.

"We are exploring what cutbacks will have to be made," he said.

The department has been housed in the cramped inadequate facilities of Fairchild Theatre and the M-U auditorium. The department has had problems finding adequate space to hold classes.

"We have to turn down half the kids that want to theater classes because we have no room," said professor John Baldwin. He added that the University is talking about converting Fairchild into a lecture hall.

Baldwin added the department has problems holding classes when the auditorium or Fairchild is in service. He said there is no facility to hold masters of fine art class in directing and design.

Professor Donald Treat said good material is sometimes wasted because of inadequate storage space. He said good props have been destroyed because they could not store them, adding to production costs.

Treat said some members of the department expected the building to be built without classrooms. He added it was not an unexpected shock.

"Some of us had the feeling it would be built without the classes," he said. "It came as no big shock."

Baldwin added that the amount of money spent for the facilities is a drop in the bucket compared to what is lavished on other projects.

"It seems that since this is one of the greatest universities in the world that we could have more than one (performing) auditorium," he added.

TOM SHANAHAN

MSU will finish 10-1

It was a cold 40 degrees one October Saturday afternoon at Champaign, Ill. The wind was whipping in your face like needles during the 1976 MSU-Illinois game.

MSU was not a very good football team that season. The Spartans were coming off three straight losses that were three straight poorly played games. Notre Dame won 24-6. Michigan won 42-10 and Minnesota won 14-10. Their record was 1-4-1.

It was my first season covering MSU football after covering tennis and golf the year before. So far, I had only written about losses because the year's only win came before school started.

It wasn't much fun talking to first year coach Darryl Rogers after the games. He was having a tough time adjusting from his winning teams at San Jose State to the probation-bound Spartans. Covering football wasn't turning out to be what I thought it would be.

I remember Charlie Vincent, who has covered MSU football during its losing years in the 70s for the Detroit Free Press, pulling out his typewriter and hoisting it into working position while saying with a sigh, "I want to know when the Spartans are going to put an end to my suffering and let me cover a bowl game in warm weather."

That didn't encourage me either. But those days have changed since Rogers has established himself as he begins his third year at MSU.

Now Rogers wonders if he can find one more defensive back to fill out the secondary. He used to wonder if he could find one man to play the secondary.

He used to wonder if his line could keep a hole open long enough to get a tailback through it. Now he has three tailbacks who get through equally fast and doesn't know which one to use.

Last fall the Spartans finished 7-3-1 in Rogers second season (he was 4-6-1 the year before) and closed with five straight wins.

It was similar to the MSU's 1974 season when it was also 7-3-1 with five straight wins. But the similarities end there because Rogers' rebuilding will continue until MSU wins the Big Ten title.

Which is next year. It will be a 10-1 season.

Only Southern California can beat MSU next year. It doesn't matter that the Michigan game is in Ann Arbor.

The defense will be strong with Mike Marshall and Tom Graves healthy. A defensive line of Melvin Land and Angelo Fields will be awesome. If Fields' knee doesn't recover the line will only be good.

The offense will be potent. Rogers has all sorts of backs to zig-zag across the field on scoring romps.

And third year quarterback Ed Smith will regain the Big Ten passing title he had in 1976 but lost last year to Purdue's Mark Herrmann.

Herrmann's senior receivers who caught everything in sight won't be around next year to pile up the passing yardage. Next year Smith will have the experienced receivers like Kirk Gibson, Eugene Byrd and Mark Brammar.

The kicking will miss Hans Nielsen and Tom Birney, but it still has Ray Stachowicz, last year's Big Ten leader, to keep MSU from giving away good field position.

The season's final week could see an anti-climactic Michigan-Ohio State game if the Spartans have already clinched the Big Ten.

ABC will be forced to broadcast the game, but with MSU coming off probation in 1979 it'll quickly decide it's putting MSU back on TV. They can take their pick between the Notre Dame game, Michigan game or Ohio State game.

While I'm making predictions, the basketball team will remain Big Ten champions as long as Ervin Johnson stays at MSU and Gregory Keiser can handle U-M's Phil Hubbard. They'll make it to the final four and a national championship.

MSU wins fourth straight

Finishing its preparation for the state tournament, the MSU women's tennis team finished a 4-0 season at home with an easy 9-0 victory over Western Michigan.

The Spartans defeated all of their in-state foes this season except for Michigan and, therefore, is just about assured the No. 2 seed in the state tournament. The seedings and pairings will be decided tonight.

"The last three wins will lighten the team up," coach Earl Rutz said. "They know they can win, but we still need work on the singles."

The Spartans' four wins in the state have been without the services of top singles and doubles player Debbie Mascarin. The junior out of Grosse Pointe Shores has missed the last four dual meets and the Big Ten Championships because of a torn tendon in her leg. But she will be back for the state tournament when the team needs her to take on Michigan's No. 1 player, Kathy Carson.

The netters had no problem with the Broncos as none of the matches reached the third set. The closest match was Mike Kruger's 6-2, 6-4 victory over Janice Moon in the No. 3 singles position.

Because of the easy competition, Rutz was given the chance to play all three of his freshman reserves, Lisa Reed, Debbie Adams and Suzanne Asher.

Reed defeated Judy Osborne in the No. 6 singles 6-0, 6-2. Adams and Asher won the No. 3 doubles match over Western's Moon and Judy Osborne 6-3, 6-2.

In the rest of the singles matches, Cindy Bogdonas defeated Carol Tschudy 6-2, 6-2. Jennifer Brielmaier defeated Sue Ghindia 6-1, 6-2. Diane Selke defeated Jean Gallagher 6-0, 6-0 and Heather MacTaggart defeated Ann Cavanaugh 6-3, 6-2.

In the other doubles matches, Bogdonas and Selke defeated Tschudy and Ghindia 6-1, 6-3 and Brielmaier and MacTaggart defeated Gallagher and Cavanaugh 6-0, 6-0.

The state tournament, which will be in Ann Arbor Thursday through Saturday, will have a large and small college tournament.

MSU will participate in the large college tournament with Michigan, Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Western Michigan and Wayne State.

The tournament has a new format in an attempt to provide fair competition in both individual and team levels. There will be three separate tournaments, team, individual and doubles. The survivors in a series of dual matches will go to regionals. Players that reach the semi-finals in the singles matches will go to regionals and so will the winners of the doubles tournament.

MSU is currently 4-5 in regular season dual competition, 6-8 including the spring trip.

IM Notes

The entry deadline for the IM fraternity, independent and individual golf tournaments which will be held Saturday and Sunday, is today at 5 p.m.

Entries for the independent track meet scheduled for May 23, are now being taken.

Spartans split pair with WMU

By MICHAEL KLOCKE
State News Sports Writer

MSU outfielder Ken Robinson had suffered through a terrible slump in recent weeks so head coach Danny Lutz decided to bench him for Tuesday's twinbill with Western Michigan.

But after Robinson's seventh inning, two-run homer gave the Spartans a 2-0 win in the nightcap. Lutz whither may reconsider. MSU dropped the opener, 6-5.

MSU's Chuck Baker and the Broncos' Larry McDavid horns in a pitching duel through the first six innings. Robinson drilled a shot over the 410 marker in centerfield. pinch runner Jim Buterakos aboard for the win.

MSU is now 28-17 for the year while WMU is 23-14. In Western's 6-5 win in the opener, MSU was a valuable lesson: a little bit of fundamental baseball can overcome a lot of home runs.

Kirk Gibson clubbed two long home runs to rightfield. Tony Spada belted one, too. But, unfortunately for Spartans, it wasn't enough to make up for some bases and inept fielding.

Three times the Broncos were able to get a man on free pass to start rallies - including the winning one outburst in the seventh.

And, ironically, it was the hitting heroes Gibson and who each committed costly errors in WMU's three-run inning.

Gibson, who now has ten round trippers this season, connected in the final inning to close the gap to one run. Weller then tripped, but he was left stranded on third.

Larry Pashnek, who pitched only one inning of relief tagged with the loss dropping his record to 3-5. Dave Sur the win for MSU.

In the nightcap, Baker, who was only pitching because he was knocked out by Ohio State Saturday, limited the Broncos to three hits in raising his record to 5-3. Baker retired the men he faced.

The Spartans squandered numerous scoring attempts early in the game, but Baker just kept mowing down Western Michigan.

Robinson wouldn't have even been in the game to hit the game winning homer if rightfielder Tom Schultz hadn't put his hand in a bunt attempt earlier in the contest.

MSU will now host Iowa and Northwestern in doubleheader this weekend before coming home for three twinbills next week.

Silverdome in trouble?

DETROIT (UPI) — A suburban Harper Woods Democrat says that the operators of the Silverdome may be making a multi-million dollar loss this year.

The reason, said state Sen. Bertel, was to assure that the State of Michigan continues to operate the stadium.

One of the Detroit Lions' Detroit Express and, beginning next season, the Detroit Pistons.

Stadium Authority Chairman Clark said Bertel's charges were "completely untrue."

Clark said the Pontiac Silverdome serves as the "whipping boy" for Sen. Bertel's publicity campaign to eliminate Pontiac's $800,000 appropriation from the State of Michigan," said Clarkson.

Bertel, in a Detroit news conference Monday, called for an investigation into the stadium's operation by local, state and federal authorities.

The deficits he referred to were reported in audits of the stadium's finances. The latest audit, released last week, showed the stadium operated at losses of nearly $3.7 million for the fiscal year that ended last June.

Bertel said he had not had a chance to examine the latest audit but based his criticism of the stadium authority on audits for years prior to June 30, 1976.

Pontiac officials were predicting that a property tax increase of two to four mills will be necessary to pay off the bonds sold to build the stadium. That would be $40 to $80 a year for a house with a market value of $40,000.

Clarkson denied the stadium's deficits were being faked. He said that they resulted from changes made to bring in the other sports team — Express and Pistons — and even that will eventually make it possible to book the stadium for 365 days a year.

Bertel charged that auditors made a number of questionable bookkeeping practices in their examination of the stadium authority's books.

These included destroying ticket stubs and unsold tickets for stadium events, he said. Parking tickets also were destroyed, he said.

Bertel backed up his accusations with a copy of an inter-office memorandum sent from a state Treasury Department official, Douglas R. Arnold, to the head of the department's local government audit division, Emil Tahvonon.

Arnold's memo stated that the stadium authority should have been able to meet its bond payments in 1975-76 without the $800,000 subsidy it received from the state.

Clarkson disagreed.

He said the stadium's income still "is not sufficient to meet our current bond requirements."

Bullets, Sonics hold their own

By United Press International

Blessed are the lame and the wounded for they are more than holding their own in the NBA playoffs.

The Washington Bullets, with center Wes Unseld still sidelined with a sprained ankle, guard Phil Chenier out for the season due to a back injury and Kevin Grevey popping 28 aspirins per game to combat a neck ailment, can finish off the heavily favored Philadelphia 76ers in the City of Brotherly Love tonight.

Despite their obvious physical shortcomings, the Bullets have somehow managed to take three of the first four games from the Sixers, who are now battling among themselves amid their embarrassment.

Meanwhile, the Seattle SuperSonics, with a battered and bruised backcourt, can take a 2-1 lead against the Denver Nuggets on their home court Wednesday night. Seattle guard Dennis Johnson, despite a dislocated finger on his right hand, scored 22 points Sunday in a 121-111 victory over the Nuggets in Denver. Johnson's backcourt mate, scored a team-high 26 points in the game although he was suffering from a bout of the flu.

"Amazing," said Denver forward Bobby Jones, of Brown. "The man is simply some kind of shooter."

Although it could end a lot sooner, a Washington elimination of the 76ers would be an even bigger upset than a similar feat by Seattle over Denver. The Bullets were given almost no chance of upsetting the Sixers, especially after Philadelphia's methodical, four game sweep of the New York Knicks in the quarter finals.

"I've said all along that we're the better team because we play better together," said Bullets coach Dick Motta.

"This isn't over yet because we respect their talent, but we play better as a unit."

Carew not happy in Minnesota; he may be traded to California

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK — Rod Carew's career with the Minnesota Twins is winding down in a hurry.

Carew may be gone within the next five weeks, not to the New York Yankees as has been reported in some quarters, but more likely to the California Angels, who already have a parcel of players lined up to give up for him.

Carew, who is working on the last year of his three-year contract, might be wanted out from the Twins. He has said that not once, but many times, because owner Calvin Griffith is unwilling to meet his demands.

"I have the upper hand on me," Griffith said Tuesday from St. Paul. "He can say who he wants to be traded to and who he wants to be traded to. I hope the time never comes that I trade him, but if there's nothing else I can do, I wouldn't say no."

Carew doesn't really want to trade his 32-year-old six-time All-Star but feels he has no choice in view of the terms the agent is asking for his client. The agent is seeking a $4 million package over eight years. Such a contract would run until 1984.

Carew is a "10 and 5 man." That means he's been in the majors at least 10 years, the last five with the same club and has the right to turn down any deal in which he's involved. If he wants to wait until his option year is up at the end of next season, he can sell his services to the highest bidder, possibly for anywhere from $3 million on up.

Both the Angels and the Texas Rangers have discussed Carew with the Twins.

Sponsor sheets for the May 21st Phi Gamma Delta Bike-a-thon are now available at residence hall reception desks.

The bike-a-thon, which is open to all MSU students, will cover six and a half miles through East Lansing.

Bikers will report to one of four checkpoints for the bike-a-thon. The checkpoints are: Marble School, Hagadorn and Service Roads, Harrison and Service Roads, the Phi Gamma Delta house at 239 Oakhill.

The cyclist collecting the most money will win a 10 speed bicycle, with all proceeds going to the American Diabetes Association.

So far, 47 teams are signed up for the race, which will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday. Sixty-five teams are expected to participate, he said.

Teams will represent fraternities, sororities, residence halls and independent living units in the all University event funded by ASMSU. The event will kick off Greek Week.

Women's pushcart teams will consist of one driver and eight cart pushers, while male teams use four pushers, Simon said. The race is run relay style, with women's teams pushing their carts 220 yards a stretch and men 440 yards.

Teams must be present at 9 a.m. Saturday to check in at the starting point in front of the Women's IM Building, Simon said.

THE HIGH/SCOPE GRADUATE PROGRAM

If you hold a bachelor's degree in any discipline and are interested in career possibilities in innovative education, this nine-month graduate program utilizing a seminar and practicum approach for advanced training may be what you're looking for.

As a High Scope graduate student, you will

- Learn to apply developmental theory while teaching in our demonstration classrooms
- Work individually in an informal setting with staff from our parent infant, preschool, and elementary education departments
- Gain effective techniques of working with parents & fellow teaching team members as well as young children.
- Learn new methods of classroom observation and evaluation.

There are M.A. degree possibilities with cooperation in institutions.

If you are certified in special education, you may also be interested in our Leadership Program in Early Childhood Special Education.

U.S. to send spacecraft to Venus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is about to announce an ambitious, detailed plan to send a spacecraft to another planet's atmosphere with unoccupied probes that may provide information about the earth's weather machine.

Space officials said Tuesday that the first of two Venus spacecraft is set to launch next week on a slow, steady climb toward earth's neighboring planet.

The two spacecraft, one to study the atmosphere and the other to break into five probes to penetrate the atmosphere, are the first designed primarily to study the atmosphere of another planet.

Scientists say the atmosphere of Venus appears to represent a relatively simple weather mechanism when compared with the Earth's.

Studies of the interaction of clouds, temperatures, pressures and other factors on Venus may help humans to better understand Earth's more complex atmosphere, they said at a National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientific briefing.

Venus, the second planet from the Sun, is almost identical to Earth in size and mass, but has a much denser atmosphere composed mostly of carbon dioxide. Atmospheric pressure at the planet's surface is 100 times that of Earth and temperatures are about 900 degrees Fahrenheit, hotter than the melting point of lead.

The United States has flown three Mariner spacecraft by the planet, but none landed or orbited. The Soviet Union sent 10 unoccupied craft to Venus, including eight that dropped landers to the harsh surface.

U.S. officials say they have heard reports that the Russians will launch two spacecraft to Venus this August and that these vehicles will probably arrive several weeks after the American Pioneers.

A. Thomas Young, NASA's director of lunar and planetary programs, said U.S. and Soviet space officials will meet next month in Innsbruck, Austria, to discuss future cooperation. Young said American officials hope to get details of the upcoming Soviet mission.

 "Governor Milliken is against it. Senator Donald Riegle is against it. Senator Robert Griffin is against it and everybody I talk to is against it, but still the Department of the Navy insists they're going to push the project down our throats," said Jacobetti, a Negaunee Democrat.

Romulus, questioned whether Michigan can or should bar the project.

"If the president of these United States were to decide to build it... I think he has the authority to move," Mahalak said.

He also warned that rejecting ELF would be "another step toward reducing our capability and making us a little weaker as far as national defense is concerned."

"Each time, they change the name from Sanguine to Seafarer to ELF," said Jacobetti, who leapt to his feet, denouncing the Navy's tactics.
