PUBLICATION GUIDELINES:

We ask contributors to submit two (2) typed copies, following the format (on such issues as references and notes) of articles in this issue of TRANSFORMATION. Whilst the journal will cater for work at any level of abstraction, or detail, a number of criteria will guide the editors in selection of material for inclusion. Articles should aim for academic rigour but also clarify the political implications of the issues discussed. We are concerned not to compete with other South African journals that may cover related ground but in different ways - this will govern our selection principles. All articles will be assessed anonymously by the referees. Contributions should preferably not exceed the following lengths:

Analytical articles: 7 000 words

Debates and review articles: 3 000 words

The views expressed in TRANSFORMATION do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

CONTENTS

Articles

STRUCTURAL REFORM: A MODEL FOR REVOLUTIONARY TRANSFORMATION OF SOUTH AFRICA . . . . . 1

Is the choice ahead for South Africa one between reform and revolution? JOHN S SAUL argues that it may be useful instead for socialists to contemplate structural reform as a model for a third path.

SOUTH AFRICA'S GOLD MINING CRISIS:
CHALLENGES FOR RESTRUCTURING . . . . . 17

Gold has been the engine of South African economic growth since its discovery. Today, however, the industry faces a problematic future. JEAN LEGER and MARTIN NICOL critique plans for restructuring the industry and suggest a more progressive route.

ORGANISATIONAL CULTURE AND THE LIMITS OF TRANSFORMATION: THE IMPLEMENTATION AN ADULT
EDUCATION PROGRAMME ON SOUTH AFRICA'S MINES . . . . 36

PENNY VINJEVOLD and BRAHM FLEISCH use the mining industry to illustrate the failure of management to implement programmes promoted from the peaks of industry as a result of the 'organisational culture' down the line.

SOLOMON MAHLANGU FREEDOM COLLEGE: A UNIQUE SOUTH AFRICAN EDUCATIONAL EXPERIENCE IN TANZANIA . . . . . 47

Many writers have devastatingly critiqued the Bantu Education system and its heritage. By contrast, here PETHU SEROTE examines an experimental school the ANC ran in the years of exile for lessons in educational reform.

FAMILY MATTERS AND THE STATE: POLICY AND EVERYDAY LIFE . . . . . 61

JULIA SEGAR and CAROLINE WHITE consider in this article what would constitute progressive family policy appropriate to a new South Africa in the post-apartheid planning context.

EMERGING SOUTH AFRICAN PERSPECTIVES ON REGIONAL COOPERATION AND INTEGRATION AFTER APARTHEID . . . . . 75

Under the surface, ROBERT DAVIES detects conflicting options in what sort of regional economic policy South Africa could adopt in a new political context. He contrasts those that might bring short-term gains in exploiting the vulnerabilities of South Africa's neighbours with others that might create an overall favourable development.

Debate

TOWARDS A FRAMEWORK FOR NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT . . . . . 88

CEDRIC DE BEER argues that there is potential for achieving consensus about the reconstruction of South African society based on a focus of national development. Here, as a contribution to the debate about social, economic, and development policy, he outlines the main elements such a focus would encompass.
