LAYOUT BY : Rob EvansPUBLICATION GUIDELINES:

We ask contributors to submit two (2) typed copies, following the format (on such issues as references and notes) of articles in this issue of TRANSFORMATION. Whilst the journal will cater for work at any level of abstraction, or detail, a number of criteria will guide the editors in selection of material for inclusion. Articles should aim for academic rigour but also clarify the political implications of the issues discussed. We are concerned not to compete with other South African journals that may cover related ground but in different ways - this will govern our selection principles. All articles will be assessed anonymously by the referees. Contributions should preferably not exceed the following lengths:

Analytical articles: 7 000 words

Debates and review articles: 3 000 words

The views expressed in TRANSFORMATION do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

CONTENTS

Article

- SLOW INSTITUTIONAL PROGRESS AND CAPITALIST DYNAMICS IN SOUTHERN AFRICAN INTEGRATION: INTERPRETATIONS AND PROJECTS IN SOUTH AFRICA AND ZIMBABWE 1

Unlike other parts of this continent, southern Africa has historically been knitted together into a regional economy. It is ironic, according to a wide-ranging analysis by JEAN COUSSY, that political liberation is not bringing this process forward on a new basis. He tries to explain why and suggests an alternative policy approach.

Debate

- FOR A SOCIOLOGY OF TRANSFORMATION 41

Sociology, argues RONALDO MUNCK, was born in struggle out of historical crisis. Its continued development depends on the critical role of transformative analysis in sociological discourse that directly explores the conditions of contemporary capitalism.

- POLICY FORMULATION: COMMENTING ON PRICE 53

BEN FINE expresses the need for an earlier contribution by Max Price to resolve itself into a more concrete kind of assessment.*

Articles

- DEMOCRATISATION OR BUREAUCRATISATION?: CIVIL SOCIETY, THE PUBLIC SPHERE AND THE STATE IN POST-APARTHEID SOUTH AFRICA 55

In South Africa, civil society has been associated with the civics movement and the struggle of communities against the apartheid state. STEVEN FRIEDMAN and MAXINE REITZES review some of the arguments that were developed in the 1980s critically and consider from today's perspective how to take the goal of representative democracy further.

- THE DEMOCRATISATION OF SOUTH AFRICA: TRANSITION THEORY TESTED 74

DAVID GINSBURG considers the extent to which assessment of the political shifts of the 1990s in South Africa can be understood under the currently significant rubric of transition theory.

- THE 'LOST GENERATION': SOUTH AFRICA'S 'YOUTH PROBLEM' IN THE EARLY 1990s 103

Social concepts are not necessarily immutable; they may derive all too often from political imperatives. JEREMY SEEKINGS uses the example of the lost generation concept derived from what he considers to be a moral panic.
