LAYOUT: Marion EvansPUBLICATION GUIDELINES:

We ask contributors to submit two (2) typed copies, following the format (on such issues as references and notes) of articles in this issue of TRANSFORMATION. Whilst the journal will cater for work at any level of abstraction, or detail, a number of criteria will guide the editors in selection of material for inclusion. Articles should aim for academic rigour but also clarify the political implications of the issues discussed. We are concerned not to compete with other South African journals that may cover related ground but in different ways - this will govern our selection principles. All articles will be assessed anonymously by the referees. Contributions should preferably not exceed the following lengths:

Analytical articles: 7 000 words

Debates and review articles: 3 000 words

The views expressed in TRANSFORMATION do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

CONTENTS

Articles

- DEMOCRATIC SOCIETIES? VOLUNTARY ASSOCIATIONS AND DEMOCRATIC CULTURE IN A SOUTH AFRICAN TOWNSHIP 1

CAROLINE WHITE proposes a deeper look at the realities of South African democracy. If democracy depends not merely on formal political institutions but on vibrant popular association from below, how does a South African township look today?

- SOUTH AFRICA IN THE 1990s: THE LOGIC OF FRAGMENTATION AND RECONSTRUCTION 37

ARI SITAS considers a response to the quandaries in which radical intellectuals find themselves in post-apartheid, globalised South Africa.

- EVALUATING THE CURRENT INDUSTRIAL POLICY OF SOUTH AFRICA 51

Industrial policy must play a central role in a dynamic development strategy and the experiences of South and East Asia rank high in debate about carrying them through. HA-JOON CHANG provides a critical and comparative look at how South African efforts can be evaluated by this measure.

The Washington consensus demands privatisation of state institutions as a central plank in its plans for resuscitating the economies of African countries. But what is the actual contextualisation and value of privatisation? JENS-ERIK TORP and PETER REKVE evaluate a case study, the Mozambican fishing industry, and wonder whether it made any sense at all.
