PUBLICATION GUIDELINES:

We ask contributors to submit two (2) typed copies, following the format (on such issues as references and notes) of articles in this issue of TRANSFORMATION. Whilst the journal will cater for work at any level of abstraction, or detail, a number of criteria will guide the editors in selection of material for inclusion. Articles should aim for academic rigour but also clarify the political implications of the issues discussed. We are concerned not to compete with other South African journals that may cover related ground but in different ways – this will govern our selection principles. All articles will be assessed anonymously by the referees. Contributions should preferably not exceed the following lengths:

Analytical articles: 7 000 words

Debates, comment and review articles: 3 000 words

The views expressed in TRANSFORMATION do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

Articles

- Gender, Education and the Transition to Democracy: research, theory and policy in South Africa c1980-1998 1

Linda Chisholm and Elaine Unterhalter examine the theoretical and methodological perspectives which have characterised recent research on education and gender in South Africa and some of the policies informed by these approaches being developed at national and provincial level. They also discuss some of the important silences in this research area and the problems that could arise from these gaps.

- Education and Training for the Informal Sector: reflections on an international research project 26

Simon McGrath discusses the results of a review of education and training interventions impacting on the informal sector which was commissioned by the British Government's then Overseas Development Administration (ODA).

- Generational Transition in Union Employment: the organisational implications of staff turnover in COSATU unions 47

Sakhela Buhlungu examines a new generation of post-apartheid trade union officials' changing approach to traditional labour traditions, practices and politics.

Trade Policy and Industrial Development in Durban 72

Imraan Valodia explores the literature on international trade in the context of the city of Durban's industrialisation over the course of the twentieth century.

Commentary

Mahmood Mandani responds to Jean Copans' review of his book, State and Society: contemporary Africa and the legacy of late colonialism carried in Transformation 36. 97
