PUBLICATION GUIDELINES:

We ask contributors to submit two (2) typed copies, following the format (on such issues as references and notes) of articles in this issue of TRANSFORMATION. Whilst the journal will cater for work at any level of abstraction, or detail, a number of criteria will guide the editors in selection of material for inclusion. Articles should aim for academic rigour but also clarify the political implications of the issues discussed. We are concerned not to compete with other South African journals that may cover related ground but in different ways – this will govern our selection principles. All articles will be assessed anonymously by the referees. Contributions should preferably not exceed the following lengths:

Analytical articles: 8 000 words

Debates, comment and review articles: 3 000 words

Notes to contributors: see inside back cover

The views expressed in TRANSFORMATION do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

CONTENTS

- Editorial: The Truth and Reconciliation Commission 1
John Daniel
- Articles
- 'Just war' and 'Just means': was the TRC wrong about the ANC? 9
Janet Cherry, a member of the TRC's Research Department, takes a second look at the TRC's findings on the ANC and concludes they were morally and legally sound.
- 'They should have destroyed more': the destruction of public records by the South African state in the final years of apartheid, 1990-94 29
Verne Harris analyses the systematic, and probably, illegal destruction of state records by the outgoing National Party government as a large-scale sanitisation of its memory resources, an attempt at a state-imposed amnesia.
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission of South Africa Report 57
Stephen Ellis reviews the TRC's final report and deems it both a balanced account of at least certain categories of human rights abuse and as a major historical document.

- Truth, Telling, Questioning: the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, Antjie Krog's Country of My Skull, and literature after apartheid 73

Mark Sanders analyses Antjie Krog's major work on the TRC, which he regards as part reportage, part memoir and part metafiction which can be read as a supplement to the report.

Commentary

- International Humanitarian Law, Mengistu Haile Mariam and South Africa's Missed Opportunity 92

John Daniel comments on Human Rights Watch's attempts to persuade the South African government to arrest former Ethiopian dictator Mengistu Haile Mariam during his 1999 stay in South Africa and criticises the government for missing a chance to advance the development of international law.

Review

- International Council on Human Rights Policy's Performance and Legitimacy: national human rights institutions is reviewed by John Daniel. 100
